Elements of Music

My, how the first nine weeks have flown by! This week in music, we have been reviewing the elements of music. Students have been practicing and applying them to our concert music. The students have been having a blast analyzing the form of various pieces, dancing to the beat, singing and playing with dynamics and connecting/analyzing the structure of melodic contour.

Next week, we will begin a new adventure and study the orchestra and its instruments. Students will identify instruments visually and aurally and participate in acting out animals in the famous work "Carnival of the Animals," by Camille Saint-Saëns.

Dates to Remember:

December 1st - K-3 Concert @ TSMS 6pm-7pm

December 8th - Field Trip to Ruby Diamond Auditorium to see The Nutcracker. (6th and 8th grade.)

December 8th - 4-8 Concert @ TSMS 6pm-7pm

Biology: Egg Incubator

Finally, eggs are in the incubator and it's been more than a week! On October 7th we placed the eggs in the incubator. Each student adopted an egg to name them later, if they hatch. After one week we checked on them and realized some of them are not fertilized and some of them have embryos developing in them. This process is so sensitive-- temperature and moisture levels need to be constant. Some embryos can stop developing during this process if the temperature and moisture levels change too much. We will keep rotating them until day 18 and then wait for the next three days to see if any of them hatch.

Update:

We had to discard seven of the eggs which were not fertilized. They started smelling bad in the incubator which could affect the chicks in the eggs. This Saturday is a big day, Mr. Demir will be out of town at the cabin camp with CMP students; but don't worry, Mr. Temel will be watching the hatching process and transferring the chick into a brooder which will provide them food, water, and warmth. Mr. Demir will be watching this process online from a security camera with his cellphone!

Red Ribbon Week

Ms. Priore's homeroom class is preparing for Red Ribbon Week! They are saying NO to drugs! The theme this year for the campaign is YOLO, Be Drug Free! The students took pictures holding the hashtag "you only live once" showing their support for the campaign and agreeing to be drug FREE!

Ms. Wrinkle's Third Grade Wildflower News

This week in Ms. Wrinkle's classroom we have been studying how simple machines are used to help make hard work easy. We studied in the classroom and became experts with the word. We took the challenge outside and became experts with the hands. We actually took Ms. Wrinkle's little red Mini Cooper and used simple machines to move it around the parking lot. It was a blast. We also had a lot of fun this week planting our garden. We planted Bok Choy, Cabbage, Broccoli, and Cauliflower. In reading we are learning to vote. All the students voted that we should never have homework again. It was sad that I had to remind them they can't vote for a law until they are 18, so, keep doing that homework!
